The latest Communique from the National Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Advisory Group on COVID-19

This Communique provides an update on the work of the National Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Advisory Group on COVID-19 (the Taskforce) and current key areas of focus.

The Taskforce was convened in March 2020 to co-design the Management Plan for Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Populations on COVID-19 (the Management Plan) to protect communities.

The Taskforce is co-chaired by the National Aboriginal Community Controlled Health Organisation (NACCHO) and the Australian Government Department of Health. Taskforce members include Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander health sector representatives and state and territory governments. With the assistance of NACCHO, the Taskforce has provided essential national expertise and a coordination role throughout the COVID-19 pandemic.

Phase 4 radio messages available in traditional languages

The Department of Premier and Cabinet has produced a collection of resources, contacts and information for remote communities about COVID-19 coronavirus and how to stay safe. This collection includes audio messages available in Plain English, Kriol, Martu and Ngaanyatjarra that provide information on:

- Phase 4 update
- Tougher border controls
- Phase 4 COVID-19 rules
- Travel restrictions update
- Help for funerals
- Fast COVID-19 test
- Flu shots

Surge training in the regions

The Public Health Emergency Operations Centre (PHEOC) is currently undertaking training in the regions for all doctors, nurses, allied health, aged care, prison health, health promotion and local government staff who may be involved in the COVID-19 response. The training includes education about transmission and clinical features of COVID-19, and its public health management in Australia, along with an introduction to contact tracing. This training forms a critical part of our COVID-19 response preparedness in WA.

Priority COVID-19 health messages for Aboriginal people

Aboriginal health professionals and sector representatives are encouraged to promote and reinforce the following key messages to Aboriginal clients and community. Remember to:

- continue to physical distance where possible
- continue to practise good hand hygiene and cough etiquette
- stay at home if unwell and rest to stay strong
- if unwell with flu-like symptoms, get tested (make sure to self-isolate until you receive your test result)
- make sure your family gets the flu vaccine
- keep attending your regular health checks, especially for chronic illnesses
- download the COVIDSafe app
- look after your mental health and social emotional wellbeing during this time.

Statewide Aboriginal resources

A suite of statewide Aboriginal tailored resources has been developed by the Department of Health WA for the community and health professionals, to promote awareness and provide up-to-date COVID-19 information that is culturally safe.

The aim of providing culturally-appropriate communications is to increase awareness and reduce anxiety and fear in our communities. We encourage Aboriginal health professionals to demonstrate leadership when working with the Aboriginal community by:

- Being “on message”
- Reinforcing and encouraging people to ‘stay vigilant’ and ‘don’t get complacent’
- Using positive strength-based messaging and language
- Ensure consistent, accurate and timely communication is provided, based on the official public health messages and health information issued by the Chief Health Officer from the Department of Health.

Refer to the Department of Health COVID-9 website for up-to-date information

Health services are welcome to tailor and localise Department of Health Aboriginal resources to meet community needs.

Please reference the Department of Health WA and contact PHEOC (pheoc@health.wa.gov.au) for further information.

New resources for the Aboriginal Sector

Published

- Where to get tested for COVID-19 in Regional and Remote WA
  This new COVID-19 resource lists all Public Health Emergency Departments where testing for COVID-19 is available. There is a link to a list of GP Respiratory Clinics. The resource acknowledges that most Aboriginal Community Controlled Health Organisations also provide testing for their clients. Target audiences include Western Australian Aboriginal communities, Regional and Remote Western Australian residents, and anyone travelling throughout Western Australia’s regions.
